Course Aims and Learning Outcomes

The main educational aims of the course are to:

- Prepare students for a coaching or managerial career in football, within both the professional and grassroots environment
- Provide students with a detailed knowledge of the external context in which football coaching takes place
- Develop students' understanding of contemporary approaches to evidence based practice in football coaching and management
- Develop students' understanding of, and experience in, the application of football coaching skills and techniques.

What you will learn:

Knowledge

- Evaluate core coaching concepts and their application in different football settings
- Evaluate techniques for coaching in different football environments, including local communities, grassroots clubs and professional clubs
- Evaluate techniques for managing in different football environments, including; grassroots clubs, semi-professional and professional clubs
- Evaluate tactics and technical strategies.

Thinking skills

- Solve problems concerning coaching contexts
- Apply existing frameworks to new contexts and situations
- Explore professional knowledge in new environments.

Subject-Based Practical skills

- Apply relevant legislation and ethical frameworks to the planning and delivery of football coaching sessions
- Apply analysis skills to evaluate the performance of individual players and teams.

Skills for life and work (general skills)

- Demonstrate effective leadership skills in a football coaching context
- Communicate information clearly and coherently in a range of forms relevant to intended audiences
- Work harmoniously and productively with others to achieve shared outcomes
- Manage time effectively in order to meet deadlines and achieve performance targets
- Evaluation skills of own performance and that of others.

Learning and Teaching

Teaching and learning methods presently included across the course up to level six are:

- Tutor-led lectures, seminars and group discussion
- Practical skills sessions
- Practical activity performance and analysis
- Distinguished visiting speakers
- Computer-aided learning
- Group work
- Case studies
- Debates
- Group and individual tutorials
- Independent learning
- Student centred

The teaching and learning approaches have been chosen as ones which will promote a positive approach to learning in the course, the development of questioning approaches and increased autonomy and independence of students. For example, individual and group tutorials help direct students' work, develop critical and practical understanding, and provide underpinning support for self-development.

There is an emphasis on applied learning approaches, linking theory closely to practice (where possible) whilst adequately contextualising and conceptualising relevant issues. The course ensures the student experiences a multitude of blended learning opportunities, such as feed-forward lectures, coaching observations with staff feedback, action learning sets, student presentations with peer feedback, guest speakers and group work. Module descriptors detail the specific teaching and learning strategies employed in each module.

Assessment

A range of assessment types are used across the course, as appropriate to each module. Assessment is predominantly continuous, employing items that will include academic essays, reports, presentations, portfolios, reflective writing as well as practical coaching sessions. Applied assessment tasks are used as far as possible to enable students to link theory with practice, thereby assessing knowledge and understanding alongside subject-specific skills and key skills.
